Lindberg

a typeface by Feòrag NicBhrìde

Lindberg is based on a font used for the recipe names in an early 20th century Latvian vegetarian cookbook. This type lies somewhere in-between blackletter and Art Nouveau styles; the recipes themselves are set in a classic blackletter typeface. The book appears to be a translation from Danish, and Lindberg is the name of the author.

This typeface has over 600 glyphs. As well as all those required to write European languages which use Latin script, Greek and Cyrillic characters are included. If you do not have the appropriate keyboard driver installed, they can be found using the Glyphs/Special Characters menu item in most MacOS X applications.

This archive contains the TTF versions of the font, which can be used on MacOS X, Linux and Windows. It includes the following files:

- About Lindberg TTF.pdf - this file.

- Lindberg.ttf - the font file. In MacOS X, double click on this to see a preview. Click on the "Install Font" button to install.

A PostScript flavoured OpenType version is also available.

License and Notes

Note that the license includes the provision "Any of these conditions can be waived if you get permission from the copyright holder". You already have my permission to use this font for commercial purposes, such as in a magazine or advertising, and do not need to ask (though a copy of whatever you used it for would be nice). If you wish to redistribute this font commercially, including on a website with paid advertising, you must still get my permission to do so and "you must make clear to others the license terms of this work".
